

MISSION

It is the Laborers Training and Retraining Trust's primary mission to furnish participating Southern California construction contractors with a highly skilled, well trained and motivated workforce that is willing to meet the growing demands of a continuously changing industry. With the skills they need and the desire they possess, we train and retrain apprentices and journey workers to rise up to the challenge of becoming qualified and productive construction craft laborers. As a jointly administered labor-management trust fund, we ensure that we provide laborers, signatory employers, local unions and partners with quality and state-of-the-art training and services that promote safety, respect, discipline, determination, dedication, leadership and continual improvement.

VISION

The Laborers Training and Retraining Trust perceive the future as our path to the next plateau. We remain committed to lead the construction industry and set the mark in training. We strive to build on our rich history of quality services, hard work and dedication and encourage laborers to outshine as Lead persons, Foremen and superintendents. We aspire to be at the forefront of new technologies in training and services that will transform the industry and carry it into the next century, while continuously meeting the needs of our customers.
